

Erratum: National 5 History Success Guide (ISBN 978-0-00-750492-3)

At Leckie & Leckie, we take great care to ensure that all the information in our books is clear, easy to understand and accurate.

It has come to our attention that some of the information in the exam skills section of this book is inaccurate. The accurate information is detailed below and corrected pages can also be downloaded from the Leckie & Leckie website – visit the N5 History Success Guide page of the Leckie & Leckie website and click on the 'Online resources' tab. The errors below will be corrected when the book is reprinted.

We apologise for any inconvenience or confusion caused.

- These questions will usually start with the word 'describe', 'what' will not usually be used.
- No source will usually be included for 'describe' questions, they will be based on recall alone. In the corrected pages the advice, example question and sample answers have been amended to reflect this.

- These questions will usually be worth either 5 or 6 marks, not always 5 marks as previously stated.
- They will usually start with the word 'explain', not the phrase 'explain the reasons why...' as previously stated.

Page 110 – Evaluate the usefulness questions

- These questions will usually be worth 5 or 6 marks; there will be 4 marks available for provenance, 2 marks available for content, and 2 marks available for content omission (it was previously stated that there would be 3 marks available for each section).

- Candidates will receive 1 mark for a simple comparison and 2 marks for a developed comparison. Marks will not be limited to a maximum of 2 for overall comparisons and a maximum of 2 for detailed comparisons as previously stated.
